Olare Orok Conservancy

Topi House is located within the 23,000 acre Olare Orok Conservancy, bordering the Masai Mara National Reserve. The site has been carefully selected to maximise the views through the small thorn tree forest, in which the house sits, over the national park boundary and into the reserve beyond.

This is designed to be your very own private residence in the middle of Africa's greatest eco system. It comes with a full complement of well-trained and experienced staff at guests' disposal including a chef, Rekeru wildlife guide and a house manager to ensure a seamlessly-run safari experience which delivers the very best the Mara has to offer.

The area, with its rolling hills, is ideal for bush picnics and sundowners with a view. The property is positioned directly on the wildebeest migration route and has been known to experience huge volumes of game right up to the front door.

Accommodation

The house consists of three well sized en-suite bedrooms which are linked by a large veranda running along the front. At the far end lies the living area, which is made up of an open plan sitting/dining room complete with an open log fire. Off the back of the dining room lies a separate kitchen which can also be accessed from the rear of the house to maximise privacy.
